"It affords me great pleasure to say that the following gentlemen of our staff accept the invitation of your organization to join you at dinner on December 1. (Here follows the above list of officials.) Knowing that the unexpected is always arising in railroad life, we shall feel very fortunate if unavoidable duties do not prevent some of our officials from attending. However, there will be a good representation, earnestly seeking to become acquainted with the members of your organization and to express their interest in your city. The desire to cooperate with you in making it a really Greater Connellsville."

Although the officials will be the guests of the members of the Chamber of Commerce, owing to the widespread interest and importance of the occasion others outside the organization will be invited.

Election Returns in Fayette Were Brought in Promptly.

Special to The Courier. UNIONTOWN, Nov. 10.—Record time was made by the election officers in the 38 districts of Fayette county in making their returns of Tuesday's election. Every district was in at 1:45 yesterday afternoon, Redstone No. 1 being the last to show up.

The returns were a complete surprise. Districts that were not expected to be turned in for a day or two were in most cases the earliest returned. Owing to the excellent time made in getting the return sheets in, an unofficial list of the totals and minorities was made public at 2:30 Wednesday afternoon, including only the results for Governor, Congressman and

High Finance Gets Secretary Into Trouble

High finance among the colored folks of Swagertown resulted in the arrest last evening of Peter Hopkins as he was on his way to Harrisburg with $10,000 alleged to belong to the Union Stock Company, of which he was the secretary and treasurer.

Hopkins had boarded a Pennsylvania train which was just pulling out of the depot when Constable J. W. Mitchell arrived with a warrant. The negro decided he would continue his trip, so Mitchell went along, taking his man off when the train stopped at Moyer.

The Union Stock Company seems to be in the nature of a Co-operative grocery store, the stockholders being colored. President Sam Anderson made the information against Hopkins and appeared in the role of prosecutor at the hearing before Justice of the Peace William P. Clark this morning.

President Anderson was on the job; so were a number of the stockholders, with the books of the company at hand.

The deficit of $16 was shown, evidently warranting the charge of embezzlement made against the Secretary. Hopkins was held for court but after a parley with the other members of the company, was permitted to settle the balance due, pay the costs and continue his journey.

A Busy Session of Council Tonight

A busy session of Council is mapped out this evening when bills to the amount of $3,725.63 will probably be paid and contracts awarded for two West Side sewers and Apple street paving. The balance which runs up the total includes lifting sewer bonds and interest, to the amount of $5,100 and paying off a West Side bond and interest of $505.35.

Reese, step-father of the girl, was shot dead, while Police Sergeant Fred Schuler was fatally wounded and died on the way to the hospital. They subdued the man and held him until the police arrived. In the meantime the office was being flooded with blood from Reese and Schuler.

Big Suit Filed at Uniontown This Afternoon

Special to The Courier. UNIONTOWN, Nov. 10.—The West-Union Air Brake Company today entered suit in replevin against Walter C. Harza, receiver of the Dunbar Furnace Company, to recover 5,200 tons of pig iron valued at $93,600.

The West-Union people claim to have purchased 5,200 tons of pig iron and paid for it, removing the material to the households of L. & E. Wietter at Dunbar. The plaintiff company claims the Dunbar Furnace Company took possession of it.

It is understood the furnace company contends that the pig iron was not taken when it should have been and when the receiver was appointed the pig iron was claimed by the company for distribution among creditors.

The West-Union company also claims $10,000 damages for the alleged illegal retention of the pig iron by the defendant company.

MEXICANS ATTACK AMERICANS THERE.

Reports are That Two Have Been Killed in Serious Rioting.

STUDENTS HEAD THE OUTBREAK

Ambassador Insists That Government Give Americans Protection and This Is Promised—State Department Receives Brief Report.

United Press Telegram. MEXICO CITY, Nov. 10.—Intense is the anti-American feeling here today and troops and police are on guard all over the city keeping the crowds from collecting and endeavoring in a passive way to save and guard the interests of the American citizens. The American Colony is wrought up over yesterday's attack on Americans, during which an American flag was torn down and spat upon. The indignation is worse because it is known the Mexican government had ample warning of the outbreak and did nothing to prevent it.

American Ambassador Wilson also remonstrated with the Mexican officials who promised today to protect Americans and punish those who insulted the flag. Medical students led the outbreak. American citizens were attacked, their homes stoned and even a trolley car bearing American children to school was assaulted with missiles. Police and cavalry with drawn sabres killed three and, wounding a score, dispersed the mobs.

San Antonio Gets News of 2 Killed

United Press Telegram. SAN ANTONIO, TEX., Nov. 10.—Reports received here today from Mexico City declare that two Americans were killed, one of them lynched to a tree in the outbreaks there last night.

A mob of natives participating the anti-American riot pounced upon a young American man in the outskirts of the city and lynched him; cut down his body and dispersed before the police arrived and recovered the body. An American child is reported to have been killed when mobs stoned a street car carrying several Americans.

Private telegrams received here this afternoon say Mexico City is in a state of siege with Americans in peril. American residents have been barricaded in their homes since last night.

State Department Told of Outbreak

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—(Special.) The Anti-American riots in Mexico City were the subject of an impassioned conversation between Secretary of State Knox and the Mexican Ambassador Delaharra today.

The first news received at the State Department upon the rioting in the Mexico City came today from Consul General Arnold Shanklin at Mexico City. The dispatch is brief, simply stating that bodies of students panted the streets of the Mexican capital, crying "Death to Americans," and tearing down, trampling upon and desecrating an American flag.

The consulate was for a time threatened by a mob.

Official Count Began in Court This Afternoon

Special to The Courier. UNIONTOWN, Nov. 10.—The official count of the vote cast in Fayette county Tuesday was taken up at noon today with Judge Umel sitting on the bench. It was at 12 o'clock when the first of the count began, Prothonotary William McClelland reading the returns of the various judges.

There are three tally clerks, representing as many parties. County Chairman Ash F. Williams delegated Attorney J. Kirk Renner to perform that office for the Republicans; Attorney C. A. Rhodes was named by Chairman W. Russell Carr for the Democrats, while the Keystone party is represented by Attorney H. S. Dumbauld, delegated by County Chairman J. W. Dawson.

It is not expected that the count will be completed before late this afternoon because the task is a tedious one where haste is made slowly. Sometimes it takes more than a single afternoon to tabulate the official vote, but the work is comparatively easy at this time.

Q. Van Swearingen in the large court room.

terests of the plaintiff are in the hands of Attorney Charles G. McAlvaine of Pittsburgh, and W. J. Stiggle of the Uniontown firm, Howell, Sturgis and Morrow.

Attorney D. M. Hertzog is present on behalf of the mine inspectors of this district. It is necessary for them to see that the condition of the mine is kept safe, and they are said to be practically the cause of the injunction. AND BEAT A HASTY RETREAT

Man Was Discovered in Mrs. Stillwagon's Room and When He Ran Out Upon Being Discovered, Collided With Daughter—Police Were Called.

Miss Marie Stillwagon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clair Stillwagon of East Fayette street, had a thrilling experience with a burglar who entered the Stillwagon home this morning about 1:30 o'clock. The intruder gained entrance to the house through a kitchen window. Mrs. Stillwagon, who had not been asleep, heard some one in the kitchen but thinking it was some member of the family she paid no attention to the noise. Soon afterwards she heard some one enter her room and, on looking toward the dresser, discovered a man standing in front of the dresser. The man threw a flash light on Mrs. Stillwagon and pointed a revolver at her. Her screams awakened Mr. Stillwagon and while the latter was getting out of bed the man ran out of the room into the hall.

"Marie Stillwagon" hearing her mother scream ran into the hall, fairly into the arms of the surprised intruder. She caught hold of the burglar and held on to him with a hearty grip. She pulled the man toward her parents' room and he hauled her toward a room from which he could make his escape. After a tussle he struck Miss Stillwagon, knocking her to the floor. The man made a getaway.

The police were notified and hurriedly came to the Stillwagon home but there was no trace of the burglar. The man was muffled and was about 5 feet 8 inches in height.

Foreigner Dies at the Hospital; Case a Mystery

Steve Mecon, the foreigner who was admitted to the Cottage State hospital Monday morning, died last night shortly before 9 o'clock. Steve was brought to Connellsville Sunday night from Indian Creek and was accompanied by several companions. He was examined by a local physician and his illness seemed to be a mystery. Later he was removed to the hospital and was kept there until Monday morning when he was taken to the hospital.

All day Monday and Tuesday he was violently insane. Yesterday owing to his weakened condition he rested more quietly. The case is a mystery to the hospital physicians. At noon today the body was still at the hospital. Little is known about the man, but it is thought that he had no relatives in this country.

GENERAL STRIKE ALMOST CERTAIN.

COAL WAGON DRIVERS QUIT

Fifty of Them in Employ of One Com-
Yards—Labor Commissioner Williams Prepares to Act.

United Press Telegram.
NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—The union drivers of most of the big coal companies in the city joined the express drivers' strike today. Fifty men in the employ of one company left their wagons standing in the yards. The International Brotherhood of Teamsters declared positively today that the question of a general strike would be determined at a mass meeting tonight.

There seems no doubt that if the express companies continue their refusal to arbitrate the dispute the general strike involving 40,000 drivers will be called. State Labor Commissioner John Williams came to New York today from Albany. He declared that if the express companies do not yield he will invoke the State law which gives him the right to examine the companies' books and to subpoena and examine witnesses.

He believes he will be able to force
the companies to arbitrate.

FAYETTE'S VOTE

Cause for Congratulation From Republican State Leader.

Fayette county comes out of the gubernatorial election of 1910 as the banner Republican county among the entire 67 counties of the entire state of Pennsylvania, which is regarded as a magnificent endorsement of Senator W. H. Crow, who served as chairman of the recent Republican state convention, and of County Chairman Ash F. Williams and the loyal band of republican associates with them, the Standard says.

Throughout the state there was more or less falling out in the Republican vote and the pluralities were reduced considerably in some places and wiped out in others. Fayette was one of the counties where unusual efforts were exerted to promote Republican sentiment and it required the hardest kind of personal work on the part of the Republican leaders to maintain the G. O. P. prestige long enjoyed by this county on account of its recognized reliability.

An estimate of 2,000 plurality in Fayette for Taylor was given out before election by County Chairman Williams, and not only was this exceeded by several hundred, but the lead of Senator Crow and Col. T. S. Crago over their Democratic-Keystone opponents was far beyond the 3,000 mark, thus attesting to the high personal popularity of these two candidates and the desire of the voters to register an evidence of confidence in them in a very decided manner.

Every Republican candidate was given a handsome plurality in Fayette county and the state leaders found the returns from this county even beyond what had been promised. Senator
Crow, H. M. Kephart and Chairman
Williams have all received congratulations and warm appreciation of their work from leaders and the rank and file of their party at home.

WASHINGTON, Pa., Nov. 10.—(Spe-

WESTMORELAND RESULTS

Was in Favor of Keystone Party With Gregg Elected to Congress.

First predictions on the election outcome in Westmoreland county were born out yesterday by the returns that came. That William H.
Derry will have a majority of about 2,100 in the county and will carry the rest of the Keystone State ticket with him is a certainty. Gregg is a winner for Congress and the returns show that the district has taken care of the Democratic candidate with about 1,000 to spare.

In 172 districts in Westmoreland, out of a total of 182, Gregg has 5,569, McDonough 5,018. Gregg's lead in Westmoreland is 551.

In 61 out of a total of 74 districts in Butler county McDonough leads by 572.

Unofficial complete returns gives McDonough 563.

The Socialists ran a strong vote all over the county and it is likely that they will take third place. The Democrats with their candidate Grim will run near the bottom with the Prohibition candidates. In 119 districts of the county tabulated by members of the county organization here yesterday are as follows: Larkin, 619; Mc-Donough, 577; Huntington, 568; Li-tel, 510; assembly, first district, Keon, 214; Robinson, 233; second district,
T. Board, 1,121; Crabbe, 689; Grantham, 661.

carrying black shrouded bodies from can Fuel Company's No. 3 mine, at Tijunidad, formed a procession today and 61 corpses of victims of Colorado's lat-

Eighteen miners have been brought to the surface alive and most of these today volunteered to assist in the

who are still in the mine.

Fourteen more men are said to be missing and it is believed that all are in the mine. No one believes any of the entombed men are still alive.
The mine's subterranean slopes are filling with poisonous gases despite the operation of the retard ventilating fans.

The cause of the explosion is still

Applications for Burnt Timber Lands Received at Forest Service Office.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—Large applications for burnt timber are being received at the Forest Service office here and requests from lumbermen and contract loggers for information regarding to good logging chances are being received daily. In Northern Idaho and Western Montana the Forest Service is refusing to make sales of green timber, except where such action will work hardships on the mill men. This course is being taken on the theory that every stick of fire killed timber utilized means a stick of green timber for future use.
The Forest Service is now announcing the largest sale of fire-damaged stock on record. The opportunities offered by the Service to the lumbermen include practically all kinds of logging chances—from operations in volving large capital which can handle a hundred million feet or more—down to the small saw mill men or the mill men who desire a hundred thousand feet or less. The pulp men are also given bargain prices.
As a rule stumpage is being sold at about one-half the rate that would be asked for the timber if alive. Other fire sale timber is being put on the failed, "Mrs. Weber, I do not believe in patent medicines; but I will say that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the best medicine ever use it." This is another link in the long chain of evidence to prove the

ADVERTISING.
THE DAILY COURIER is the only daily newspaper in the Conneltsville area which has the largest and most complete advertising department in the region. It has a special value as an advertising medium for the business community in this town and the surrounding territory. It is a second class matter at the postoffice, Conneltsville.

THURSDAY EVEG., NOV. 10, 1910.

THE NECESSITY OF COKE TRADE COMBINATION.

Too long have the independent coke operators of the Conneltsville region trifled with propositions looking toward unity of action for the purpose of maintaining at a fairly profitable level the prices of their incombustible furnace fuel. Existing conditions strongly urge the organization of some reasonable defense against the price drive in a great degree to the operations of coke brokers whose interest in the business is confined to the value of their office furniture. The policy of conservatism is the best from the point of view of the coke operator. Their operations are very similar to those of the pioneer coke operators, who mined the coal like rabbits leaving most of it behind, regardless of the future. The coke broker is, after his commission, no more than a middle man between the coke producer and the consumer. He does not care to see what becomes of the coke business. Thanks to his mercenary and destructive policy, coke is being sold today at less than the actual cost of production. These sales are not universal and extensive, but they are sufficient in number and importance to materially depress the market, and they have so affected it as to stop negotiations for 1911 contracts.

We have from time to time strongly urged upon the Conneltsville operators the wisdom of combination in some form. That merger is admitted to be the most efficient combination. The formation of such a merger has been tried without success. It will, however, be successful some day, because it is a reasonable and proper proposition.

In the absence of any actual merger or a coke selling agency, or a combination of pooling of all independent coke, with the power lodged in some where to regulate production, is an other and entirely practicable one; so feasible in fact, that it is hard to understand why it has not long ago been effected.

THE ROUTE OF THE WESTERN MARYLAND.

The map of the Western Maryland railroad, elsewhere published in this issue, shows that this railroad does not parallel the Baltimore & Ohio all the way from Cumberland to Conneltsville, but makes a wide detour and keeps about as far away as possible until the roads come together on the headwaters of the Chesapeake near Myersdale.

The map also suggests that it might not be an impossible engineering feat for the Western Maryland to build an approximately straight line from Cumberland to Rockwood and thus considerably shorten their route already materially shorter than that of the Baltimore & Ohio.

As a rule parallel railroads are poor public economy, but the present instance is not a deliberate design but the accident of circumstances. The Western Maryland is not running side by side with the Baltimore & Ohio for the purpose of dividing the local business, but for the larger purpose of providing a connection between vast railway systems.

HOW TO INSURE GOOD CITY GOVERNMENT.

City government is a poor way, but perhaps it is a good thing it is so. The intervening period will afford plenty of time to reflect upon the new conditions and to carefully square the timber of the first administration.

Uncle Sam—We've got to annex that fellow or appoint ourselves general supervisors of him.

The annexation of Panama is one of the questions to come before President Taft on his trip to the Isthmus.—News Item who will measure up to the position. Another officer equally important is that of City Controller. It should be filled, not by a mere clerk or accountant, but by a citizen of intelligence and education, of judicial mind, of unimpeachable integrity. He must, in short, be a Watchdog of the Treasury.

There will probably be no lack of candidates, but selections should be made with due regard to fitness, and the party that nominates unworthy candidates deserves to be beaten.

A citizen complains to The Courier concerning the delay in crossing at Lewis and wants to know what to do about it. The best way to get prompt and sure delivery of express packages in Conneltsville is to go to the train and grab them off the car and carry them home yourself. If this is not convenient, it is a point to be kept in mind. There is a local freight from Pittsburgh every day on all the railroads.

The News has discovered that money is used at Fayette county elections. The discovery is not new.

Adversity may be the stepping stone to President Taft's future.

The Pittsburgh Leader, Berry organ, says it cost the Ensign machine $2,000 to elect Berry. We would respectfully suggest that the Leader file an expense account of same.

The Hon. Charles H. H. of Washington county is reported to have been elected again in spite of the combined attacks of the Democrats and the Insurgents.

Young ladies are warned to avoid the jaw-breaking gown.

Westmoreland county reports crops of fall produce. Fayette county raises "peaches" the year around.

Berry announces that he will contest every election district. (Will a something of a bluff? What he would do if he went to Uniontown is hard to tell.)

Given the Rockwater Democracy of Greene county who are allied with the Berry lot.

Somerset county stands solidly with Fayette.

The old Democratic Tenth Legion has a new slogan. Under Berry and Berry, the ancient faith has become a state joke.

Oyster Bay has shut up shop.

Beaver county gave Berry 1,500. It's enough to make Matthew Stanley Quay send a wireless message of disgust from beyond the Stygian river.

"To the victors belong the spoils," also the responsibilities. The Democratic majority in the House at Washington will have to assume the one as well as the other. In the chaotic language of Jesse H. P. who may well ask the insurgent element, "Where do you stand?"

South Conneltsville is smoking up bricks again and will soon be a glass as well as a tin center.

The Sports are going into Turin. Conneltsville seems to have come to this.

The late Professor One emerges from his retirement on the banks of the widespread Platte long enough to remark that the results of the election mean a protest against the tariff. The returns are not fully counted before we have full confirmation of our earlier predictions. The gun was loaded.

Fayette county is growing in importance at Harrisburg.

Missouri couldn't see the Prohibition proposition.

It was a little close, but John Tener made the home plate.

New Nationalism was a little too new for the nation.

The enthusiasm of the Democrats is natural and may be pardoned, but it's just a little too early to inaugurate a Democratic President.

The victims of Political Unrest will be lucky if their rest is not still further disturbed by that Democratic majority they helped to pile up in Congress.

Westmoreland county seems to have had an epidemic of Political Unrest. The antics of a Democratic Congress may cure its emotional insanity.

"I cannot tell a lie," says faithful Lewis. "I did it with my big stick."

The Keystone ticket has carried some forty counties in Pennsylvania. It looks as if the Democratic party had

COMMUNITY LACKING LIBRARY WITHOUT REAL NECESSITY.

A. L. Keister, Founder of Scottdale One, Considers Books a Great Agency for Uplifting General Welfare.

Special to The Courier.
SCOTSDALE, Nov. 10.—The Scottdale Free Public Library is starting on its first week with a great deal of interest displayed and the advantages of the library being taken up by a large number of people of all ages and conditions.

A. L. Keister, who founded the Scottdale Free Library, considers it nothing less than a public necessity in any community. He takes interestingly and clearly of the public library and says:

"I am very glad indeed that Scottdale has a Free Public Library. I am glad, too, to have had a part in establishing it. It gave me great pleasure to see the heads of the trustees and the people of the community, to have an institution of this kind in our town, and I am very much gratified that my thought has been realized."

"We have given much attention to the public schools, and have provided facilities and instruction that offer exceptionally good educational advantages. The young people who go out from our schools know something of the worth of books and the pleasure and profit that come from the use of them. The advantages of a public library to this class of persons are not only sources of pleasure, but these advantages enable them to continue to profit from the good work of the schools, so that they are exceptionally serviceable to them. Moreover, the advantages of the library are not limited to persons who have enjoyed the privileges of the schools."

The advantages of the library are much wider than the schools, though advantages are general. They are open to all the residents of Scottdale. Whoever chooses to do so may become a patron of the library and enjoy all the privileges it offers. And good books ought to be within the reach of all who need them. They are no benefit in their influence, and without so helpful, that the community that does not enjoy the privileges of a library of good books, lacks one of the most important agencies for building up and establishing the general welfare."

"A public library of well selected books is really a public necessity in any community. The people of every community need the companionship of good books that the public library offers. Every one ought to read books if only to please themselves by an honest diversion."

"I feel grateful to the trustees who have given their time and efforts in selecting and purchasing the books and organizing the library. I realize that it has required much time and labor to do this and I can not permit this occasion to pass without expressing my personal obligations to them for their generous services in establishing the library."

"The usefulness of the library will depend on the people of Scottdale. They can make it a useful institution, and one that will do much good. I sincerely hope that they will second the generous services of the trustees in establishing the library by the most liberal use of the opportunities and privileges it offers."

from the hymn into a melody of the familiar hymns. Evangelist Davis preached a strong sermon from the text "If God be for us, who can be against us?" At the close many in the audience manifested their desire to commence the Christian life. The choir platform was then elevated and about 50 young men took their seats and after another appeal from the speaker's platform. Some of the young men have been converted in the meetings and their earnest words aroused great enthusiasm in the audience. Not all, however, were given an opportunity to speak and a similar service will be given probably Friday evening. Evangelist Davis expects to preach a sermon on "Holiness" tonight. This is sure to cause a sensation.

PULLMAN RATES
Will Soon Come Down According to Company Announcement.
The Pullman Company officials at the annual meeting in Chicago, Ill., yesterday bowed to the power of the Interstate Commerce Commission. The directors decided that further opposition to the general proposition of the commission's power to fix rates for sleeping car berths would be futile.

The result will be that in a short time cheaper rates for berths and lower charges for upper than for lower berths will be put into effect.

THE DEMOCRATS MAKE BIG GAINS.

Many States Reversed Their Republican Standing of Years.

CHANGES IN U. S. SENATE

House of Representatives Will Have a Working Majority of About Thirty. Senate, However, Will Have Small Republican Majority.

The popular upheaval of Tuesday was followed yesterday by a general survey of the field, which disclosed with greater detail and precision just what results had been accomplished. The calculations on the National House of Representatives based on complete and unofficial returns, show that the Democrats will have a safe working majority of 30.

The outcome of the United States Senate is now definitely settled. The Republicans are assured of 16 new Senators, which with 21 hold-over Senators gives them a total of 37 new Senators, which with 23 hold-overs gives them a total of 60. Two Senatorships are still in doubt, namely, the successor of the late Mr. Duffell, in Iowa, and of Mr. Carter, in Montana, where there is a prospect of a tie. These determined totals, however, leave a Republican majority in the Senate as follows:

Total membership, 92, necessary to majority, 47; Republicans, 50; Democrats, 40, doubtful, 2.

The 16 Republican Senators considered assured are from California, Connecticut, Delaware, Massachusetts, Minnesota, Michigan, Nevada, North Dakota (2), Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Utah, Vermont, Washington, Wisconsin and Wyoming.

The 15 Democratic Senators considered assured are from Florida, Indiana, Louisiana, Maine, Maryland, Missouri, Mississippi, Nebraska, New Jersey, New York, Ohio, Tennessee, Texas, Virginia and West Virginia.

BEVERIDGE IS DEFEATED.
Later Returns Dash Last Hope of Indiana Senator.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Nov. 10.—Senator A. J. Beveridge's hopes for another term at Washington went glimmering last night when late returns showed conclusively that the Democrats yesterday elected a majority of the members of the Indiana Assembly.

According to the latest figures, the Democrats will have a majority of 22. John W. Kern was endorsed last spring by the Democrats for United States Senator and in all probability he will become the colleague of Senator Shively, also a Democrat. Of the 11 United Congressmen, 12 will be Democrats.

PICKING SUCCESSOR
To Chauncey M. Depew For Senator From New York.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—With a safe Democratic majority assured in the next State Legislature, which will select a United States Senator, political prophets are picking a probable successor to Chauncey Depew. Several candidates are expected to seek the position, and in the opinion of political observers the race promises to be interesting.

Already the names of four men in New York city have been advanced as having performed party services meriting this reward. They are William F. Sheehan, Judge Alton B. Parker, Edward M. Sheppard and John B. Stanchfield.

New Mine at Windber.
The mine of the new Rummel Coal Company about two miles from Windber, has been put in operation. It is owned by the Rummel-Willits Coal Mining Company, which owns and operates a number of the mines in that immediate neighborhood, is interested in the new concern. The new mine is on a spur of the South Fork Branch of the Pennsylvania railroad.

W. Va. Coal Tonnage.
The August tonnage of the Virginia mines was 1,197,878 tons.

Leave the Discomforts and Worries of a Burdensome Life in the East and Go to the Land of Plenty.

Never was the message "Go West" so full of such real meaning to the seeker of home and happiness as it is today. Already it has spelled comfort and the joy of living to those who have left behind them the toil of worn-out eastern farms and underpaid jobs for the Land of Plenty in the glorious Sacramento Valley, California.

This land consists of thousands of acres of soil second-to-none in richness in the world, made still more productive by irrigating streams from the nearby Sacramento River. Behind this great irrigation project is the Sacramento Valley Irrigation Company, headed by Mr. W. S. Kuhn, of Pittsburgh, Pa.

Profits! Profits!! Profits!!!

Imagine, if you can, land that works for you nearly every month of the twelve; land that keeps you busy taking one crop out and putting another in; land that grows everything, from Irish potatoes to fine, full-flavored oranges, and that knows no damaging frosts, snows, blizzards, droughts, washouts, or other eastern drawbacks; a land having more sunny days than Southern Italy; a land where men and women are not merely contented, but happy, independent, FREE! That land actually exists in the Golden Sacramento Valley, California.

You don't have to take anyone's mere word for it. Here are crop figures based on actual results accomplished in this same valley, and published by Three Chambers of Commerce and a State Board of Trade. Read them. What these men and women have done, you can do:

Net Profit Per Acre.

Almonds, $40 to $100; Apricots, $50 to $150; Alfalfa, $40 to $80; Asparagus, $100 to $250; Beans, $60 to $100; Blackberries, $250 to $300; Cherries, $100 to $225; Sugar Beets, $30 to $75; Figs, $100 to $200; Grape Fruit, $75 to $200; Grapes, $50 to $150; Lemons, $100 to $225; Logan Berries, $250 to $400; Oranges, $100 to $200; Olives, $50 to $200; Potatoes, $50 to $150; Peaches, $100 to $200; Pines, $100 to $200; Plums, $100 to $200; Strawberries, $150 to $300; Tomatoes, $50 to $150; Walnuts, $100 to $200.

Oranges, figs and lemons frequently yield as high as $2,500 to $3,000 per acre.

The Cost

Four cents a day per acre! Think of it! And you have ten years, in which to pay for your farm—with permanent water rights. A small farm here yields more net profit than one many times its size in almost any other State in the Union.

Early Markets—Hungry Markets.

Everything that grows is soon turned into Dollars. Markets are close at hand and give tip-top prices. Sacramento is only 88 miles away; San Francisco, 150. Main line of Southern Pacific Railroad runs through the center of the property. The nearby Sacramento River is always open to freight navigation. Protecting hills which surround the valley insure the ripening of oranges and lemons six weeks in advance of the Los Angeles district and the Southern part of the State.

No Trouble Getting There.

From any of our offices we shall be glad to send a representative to see you. He will cheerfully explain all about freight and passenger rates, and will take up all details for you, so that you will have absolutely no difficulty in making your arrangements to go to California.

Are You Willing to be Shown?

We could go on talking and talking, and then not begin to tell you of the proven opportunities that are awaiting you in the Sacramento Valley. So we have prepared a book, with illustrations colored to show conditions as they actually are, and giving names of those who are making good on this property, and how they have made good. This book represents a great outlay of money, for we have saved no expense to give you the facts. As an assurance of earnestness on our part, we ask 10c for this book—a price that hardly pays for the binding. But it is worth many, many times that small sum to you. It gives you the very information and advice you are seeking—presents the way by recounting what other once dissatisfied men and women have done—how you can do it—how you can get out of the rut and take your place in God's own country, where every man is a MAN in his own right, and master of his own career.

This is more than mere Opportunity—it is CERTAINTY. Get in line. Send for the book—mail the coupon TO-DAY.

Special to The Courier.
SCOTSDALE, Nov. 10.—The Tabernacle was packed to its utmost capacity once more last night and a large number were compelled to stand. Scores of people were unable to obtain admittance and many peered through the entrance to enjoy what they could of the singing and interesting service. "We ought to have books to hang some of these people on," said Evangelist Davis as he surveyed the vast audience. The men occupied the center portion of seats and in the course of the meeting Mr. Mills had them arise and sing with vigorous enthusiasm the hymn "Higher Ground." A pleasing feature was a duet "Only a Flower," sung by Master Allan McCombs and Miss May Brown Smith. The choir and audience sang "Choose the Best" going

Three West Virginia Democrats Mentioned to Succeed Him in Senate.

WHEELING, W. Va., Nov. 10.—United States Senator Nathan B. Scott will be succeeded by a Democrat next March. The Democratic landslide Tuesday changed the whole complexion of the Legislature the latest figures on which follow: Senate, 10 Democrats and three Republicans elected, with two districts in doubt. House of Delegates: 58 Democrats and 29 Republicans, with five seats in doubt.

There are already three Democratic candidates for the senatorship in the field: J. J. Gorman of Hampshire county, who was defeated by Gov. Dawson in 1904; J. T. McGraw of Granton, the national committeeman, and Joseph L. Chilton, the Democratic leader of Kanawha county. Others are expected to enter the race.

Consumption Often Develops From Pneumonia

Engineer James B. Hogg has compiled an interesting map showing the line of the Western Maryland from Connellsville to Cumberland and its relative position with that of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad between the same points.

The lines of the two roads are practically parallel from Connellsville to Sand Patch. It is there they diverge, the Baltimore & Ohio taking a northerly route and the Western Maryland one towards the south.

Although the surveys show the Western Maryland is the shorter route, but little difference can be told by a glance at the map. The map is of particular interest to those following the work of the Western Maryland.

From Cumberland to a point near the Pennsylvania State line the Western Maryland will use the tracks of the old Cumberland & George's Creek railroad which was purchased by the Western Maryland. This road, as will be noted does not strike out in a direct line from Cumberland, veering off to the southwest from Cumberland. A loop is made, but for which fact the road would strike almost a direct line west from Cumberland to Sand Patch, that is if topographical conditions would permit the building of a line by this line.

From Sand Patch or rather Newerdale the Western Maryland and Baltimore & Ohio will parallel each other all the way to Connellsville. The loading of each line is hardly ever out of sight of a person walking or riding along either track. No stretch of track in Western Pennsylvania will have as many or as substantial concrete and steel bridges as the Western Maryland will have between the Queen City and the Center of the Coke Region. All of them will be built for making speed over both the Casselman and Yough will be crossed a number of times.

The Election in Somerset County Gave Nice Republican Pluralities.

Connellsville, Pa., Nov. 10.—In spite of the partial Democratic landslide which was the feature of Tuesday's election in certain sections of the county, Somerset county stood firm for Republicanism and will give John R. Tener at least 1,000 of his conceded plurality. Reynolds will carry the county for Lieutenant Governor by about 1,000, and Hough for Secretary of Internal Affairs by about the same amount. Thomas S. Craig, the solid-lawyer candidate for the press from the Somerset-Lyons-Township district, will receive in Somerset county a majority of from 1,200 to 1,500, and will carry the district by perhaps 5,000, defeating Jesse H. Wick, the Democratic Keystone candidate. Both candidates reside in Waynesburg. James W. Lindsay was elected to the State Senate by a majority of about 1,100 and Everett C. Welch an M. D. Reel were elected to the office of Representative in the General Assembly by majorities of about 1,200 each. John B. Mosholder was elected to the office of Poor House Director.

Although the weather was unfavorable a much larger turnout was anticipated. There were only about 1,000 votes polled in the entire county, less than one-third of the vote going to the polls. Throughout the county the Keystone and Democratic vote numbered more than was expected, although they were largely outnumbered by the Republican votes in Somerset Borough. Tener had a majority of only 17 votes and in other districts the contest was equally close.

BELGIAN TYPE OVENS

Make Most of the Plant of Mt. Pleasant Coke Company.

The Mount Pleasant Coke Company which operates the Mount Pleasant and several other plants in the Connellsville region slowly added to the equipment of their Mount Pleasant plant until now that plant is among the best in the Connellsville region. There are 100 beehive ovens and 200 Belgian type rectangular ovens at this place. Fifty of the beehive ovens are arranged as to assist in firing the boilers of the plant. Electric fans are used entirely.

All the modern labor-saving devices are used about the yard and in the mine. All the coal is cut by machines driven by compressed air. It is the intention of the management to use compressed air entirely in its mining operations, this being the safest and modern appliance for that purpose.

The tenement houses at this plant are built of brick and are conveniently equipped.

The little coke village is well laid out and presents a very attractive appearance. The best of sanitary conditions prevail. The town is situated along the hill west of the coke plant and very little of the smoke from the plant goes in that direction.

The company's new boiler house is built of brick and is among the best equipped buildings in that part of the region. To the south of the boiler house is the machine and blacksmith shop, also of brick. East of the machine shop is located the huge concrete and steel tipple, while south of this is located the company store.

The Mount Pleasant plant is located on the Seelyville branch of the Pennsylvania railroad, about a mile east of Hecla.

PLATE MILLS RESUME.

At the Homestead Plant of the Carnegie Company.

After a week's suspension, three mills at the Homestead steel works of the Carnegie Steel Company resumed Monday in full, with 1,000 workers returning. The suspension of the mills, while announced for repairs, was also due to the fact that the plants were fairly well up on orders and were not inconvenienced much on shutting down. The mills were the 75-inch, 40-inch and 72-inch mills on plates. The open hearth department No. 1, which also went off for a week was also started.

The new business in plates, owing to a number of large contracts which have been secured, is expected to be excellent for the remainder of the year. Not only has new business started, but applications on old orders are coming in more regularly. One of the stocks in the Duquesne plant of the company has been blown out during the past week for repairs, and is expected to resume again soon.

TOWER HILL PLANTS

Are Modern Ones and Equipped With the Best Machinery.

The first pick entered the ground for the erection of the Tower Hill plant No. 1 in February, 1907. Now the plant is almost entirely completed and is among the best equipped in the Connellsville region, and surrounded by few. The completion of these two plants give the region one of the largest operations, and one which is second to none in thoroughness with which detail and problems of mining have been worked out. Under the close direction of General Manager W. L. Fogg, entirely new ideas have been brought into practical shape. The only which have been achieved are a well planned operation of first class construction, carrying the greatest factors of safety and economy in coal mining, and a physical equipment of machinery, ovens and oven appliances which conduce the manufacture of extra-clean, high-grade coke, of highest oven capacity, on a scale of economical costs.

Gathering, compressed air motors are used in the mine, which hauls the wagons to the landing. There are two 1,000-pound pressure compressors to furnish the compressed air. At the foot of each shaft large terminals are connected with concrete work are completed from a distance of 100 feet from the shaft. These terminals are flooded with electric light, making the handling of the trips of mine cars easy. Concrete stairways are installed in the mine, but they are small as but few animals are needed owing to the general use of machinery.

Each shaft carries the air from a separate fan by a scientific method of splitting these currents to the right and the left of the main entries, thus large volume of fresh air is kept down to a low velocity. The system which has been adopted at the Tower Hill workings carries out the idea perfectly and furnishes ideal conditions of ventilation. There is plenty of air in the farthest points of the mine, but its velocity is reduced to a point of convenience and safety. By reducing the initial velocity of the current the problem of mine dust is partly met, as less dust is held in suspension in the workings than would be the case if the air current traveled at high speed. The connection with this well balanced system of ventilation, danger from dust is virtually eliminated by a system of mine sprinkling. The iron tank contains 150 gallons of water, and carrying spraying facilities is sent through a portion of the workings every night. The water is sprayed through a set of perforated brass pipe attached to the tank, compressed air being used. The pipes spray the water evenly upon the sides of the roof. The entire workings are thoroughly dampened twice a week. The management has adopted this as a permanent insurance against coal dust.

SMALL SHIPMENTS

Of Coal Through Lock No. 4 in Month of October.

October noted as the month of 1907 when all records were broken for coal shipments through Lock No. 4 on the Monongahela river. This year witnessed rather a small shipment. Considering the conditions, however, it was good and surpassed the October shipment for 1909, but was the second lowest shipment out of this year.

The total amount of coal passing through the lock during October was 115,000 bushels. The biggest daily shipment of the month was made on October 17, when 715,000 bushels were loaded.

During the month there were 592 lockages made down stream. Steamers passing down were 122 and there were 1,122 boats, barges and flats loaded through. Up stream there were 62 lockages made, 121 steamers and 1,172 boats, barges and flats passing up. The rainfall was 1.75 inches, the most rainfall for a single day being on October 22 when 6.5 of an inch fell.

Fourth Quarter Earnings. Fourth quarter earnings of the Steel Corporation are estimated at $52,000,000.

COKING COAL

On the Pacific Coast in the Bering River District.

The Bering River and Mantanuska fields of the Pacific coast province furnish high grade steaming and coking coals as well as anthracite, but these fields have not yet been reached by railroads, and these will require large investments of capital. The conditions in both fields are in many ways similar. The Mantanuska field will probably have a slight advantage in a lower cost of mining, but this advantage will be more than offset by a greater railway haul.

The alumina-rich coal of the Bering River field can probably be mined for about $2 a ton, and when a railroad to this water is built should be delivered at Seattle for little more than $1 a ton. The anthracite of this field can probably be delivered at Seattle for $5 a ton. These coals could probably be delivered at Oregon and California ports at an additional cost of not more than 50 cents a ton.

Furnaces in Blast. The number of furnaces in blast October 1 was 23, a net decrease of six from September 1.

Coal Cars Plentiful. Coal cars are plentiful now and the coal business is making a good run.

The First $100.

Russell Sage once said that any young man who has succeeded in saving $100 has laid the foundation of a fortune. Whether this is true or not, saving certainly does come easier after you have saved the first $100, because you have formed the habit and interest helps to swell your funds. A good way to get the first hundred together is to open a Savings Account with this strong bank. Two dollars deposited regularly every week will amount to $100 in less than a year.

WHEN A MAN MARRIES

BY MARY ROBERTS RINEHART
AUTHOR OF "THE CIRCULAR STAIRCASE"
"THE MAN IN LOWER TEN," ETC.

There was no one moving in the house, and I hardly knew what to do. It was Betty who said she would go and find Mr. Harbison and Mrs. who had taken Jim's place in the studio. She started out bravely enough, but in a minute we heard her flying back. Anne grew perfectly white.

"He's lying on the upper stairs!" Betty cried, and we all ran out. It was quite true. Dal was lying on the stairs in a bathrobe, with one of Jim's Indian war-clubs in his hand. And he was sound asleep.

He looked somewhat embarrassed when he roused and saw us standing around. He said he was going to play a practical joke on somebody and fell asleep in the middle of it. And Anne said he wasn't even an intelligent liar, and went back to bed in a temper. But Betty came in with me, and we sat and looked at each other and didn't say much. The situation was beyond us.

The doctor let Jim out next day, there having been nothing the matter with him but a stomach cold. But Jim was changed; he mooned around Stella, of course, as before, but he was abstracted at times, and all that day—Sunday—he wandered off by himself, and one would come across him unexpectedly in the basement or along some of the unused back halls.

Aunt Selina held service that morning. Jim said that he always had a prayer-book, but that he couldn't find anything with so many people in the house. So Aunt Selina read some religious poetry out of the newspapers, and gave us a valuable talk on Reception versus Honesty, with me as the illustration.

Almost everybody took a nap after luncheon. I stayed in the den and read fiction, and felt very mournful. And after Hilda had shot herself, I lay down on the divan and cried a little—over Hilda; she was young and was such a tragic ending—and then I fell asleep.

When I awakened Mr. Harbison was standing by the table and he held my book in his hands. In view of the armed neutrality between us, I expected to see him bow to me curtly, turn on his heel and leave the room. Indeed, considering his state of mind the night before, I should hardly have been surprised if he had thrown Hilda at my head. (This is not a pun, I detect them.) But instead, when he heard me he glanced over at me and even smiled a little.

"She wasn't worth it," he said, indicating the book.

"Worth what?"

"Your tears. You were crying over it, weren't you?"

"She was very unhappy," I asserted indifferently. "She was married and she loved some one else."

"Do you really think she did?" he asked. "And even so, was that a reason?"

"The other man cared for her; he may not have been able to help it."

"But he knew that she was married," he said virtuously, and then he caught my eye and he saw the analogy instantly, for he colored badly and put down the book.

"Most men argue that way," I said. "They argue by the book, and—then do as they like."

He picked up a Japanese ivory paper weight from the table, and stood balancing it across his finger.

"You are perfectly right," he said at last. "I deserve it all. My grievance is at myself. Your—your beauty, and the fact that I thought you were unhappy, put me beside myself. It is not an excuse; it is a weak explanation. I will not forget myself again."

He was as subject as any one could have wished. It was my minute of triumph, but I can not pretend that I was happy. Evidently it had been only a passing impulse. If he had really cared, now that he knew I was free, he would have forgotten himself again at once. Then a new explanation occurred to me. Suppose it had been Hilda all the time, and the real shock had been to find that she had been married!

"The fault of the situation was really mine," I said magnanimously. "I quite blame myself. Only, you must believe me one thing. You never furnished us any amusement." I looked at him sideways. The discovery that Hilda and Jim were once married must have been a great shock.

"It was a surprise," he replied evenly. His voice and his eyes were inscrutable. He returned my glance steadily. It was interesting to have gone half-way to meet him, as I had, and then to find him entrenched in his self-sufficiency again. I got up.

"It is unfortunate that our acquaintance has begun so unfavorably," I remarked, preparing to pass him. "Under other circumstances we might have been friends."

"There is only one reason," he said. "When we do not have friends, we can not lose them."

He opened the door to let me pass out, and as our eyes met, all the coldness died out of his. He held out his hand, but I was hurt. I refused to see it.

"Kiss," he said unsteadily. "I—I'm an obstinate, pig-headed brute. I am sorry. Can't we be friends, after all?"

"When we do not have friends we can not lose them," I replied with cool malice. And the next instant the door closed behind me.

Just Then Dalila Had to Open the Door and Step into the Room.

would have developed sooner. The two most unexpected events of the whole quarrel occurred that night at the same time, one on the roof and one in the cellar. The cellar one, although curious, was not so serious as the other, so I came first.

Aunt Selina put her clothes in a tub in the laundry and proceeded to dress them like a vegetable. She threw in a handful of salt, some kerosene oil and a little ammonia. The result was villainous, but after she tasted it—of snuffed it—she said it needed a bar of soap cut up to give it strength—of flavor—and I went into the storeroom for it.

The laundry soap was in a box. I took a silver fork, for I hated to touch the stuff, and jabbed a bar successfully in the semi-darkness. Then I carried it back to the laundry and dropped it on the table. Aunt Selina looked at the fork with disgust, then we both looked at the soap. One side of it was covered with round holes that curved around on each other like a coiled snake.

I ran back to the storeroom, and there, a little bit sticky and appalling terribly of rosin, lay Anne's pearl necklace!

"In Mr. Harbison down there?" she asked breathlessly. "I left him on the roof and went down to my room for my scarf, and when I went back he had disappeared. He—he doesn't seem to be in the house." She tried to laugh, but her voice was shaky.

"He couldn't have got down without passing me, anyhow," she supplemented. "I suppose I'm silly, but so many queer things have happened, Kilt."

"I wouldn't worry, Betty," I soothed her. "It is big enough to take care of himself. And with the best intentions in the world, you can't have him all the time, you know."

She was too much startled to be indignant. She followed me into the library, where the sight of the pearls produced a tremendous excitement, and then every eye had to go down to the storeroom, and see where the necklace had been hidden, and Max examined all the bars of soap for thumb prints.

Mr. Harbison did not appear. Max commented on the fact cautiously, but Dal hushed him up. And so, Anne hugging her pearls, and Aunt Selina having put a final seasoning of washing powder on the clothes in the tub, we all went upstairs to bed. It had been a long day, and the morning would at least bring bridge.

I was almost ready for bed when Jim tapped at my door. I had been very cool to him since the night in the library when I was publicly asked and answered, and he was almost crying when I opened the door.

"What is it now?" I asked cruelly. "Has Betty tired of it already, or has somebody else a rash?"

"Don't be a shrew, Kilt," he said. "I don't want you to do anything. I only—when did you see Harbison last?"

"If you mean last," I retorted, "I'm afraid I haven't seen the last of him yet." Then I saw that he was really worried. "Betty was looking him up the roof," I added. "Why? Is he missing?"

"He isn't anywhere in the house. Dal and I have been over every inch of it." Max had come up, in a dressing gown, and was watching me in solitude.

"I think we have seen the last of him," he said. "I'm sorry, Kilt, to stir the little romance in the bud. The fellow was crazy about you, wasn't he?"

"No doubt of it," I said. "I've been watching him from the beginning, and I think I'm up to it. Whether he went down the water-pipe, or across a board to the next house—"

"—(I dislike him intensely," I said angrily, "but you would not dare to say that to his face. He could strangle you with one hand."

Max laughed disapprobably.

"Well, I only hope he is gone," he threw at me over his shoulder. "I don't want to be responsible to your father if he had started." I was speechless with wrath.

They went away then, and I could hear them going over the house. At one o'clock Jim went up to bed, the last, and Mr. Harbison had not been heard of. I did not see how they could go to bed at all. If he had escaped, then Max was right and the whole thing was heart-breaking. And if he had not, then he might be lying—

I was up and dressed.

The early part of the night had been cloudy, but when I got to the roof it was clear starlight. The wind blew through the electric wires along across and set them singing. The occasional blast of a belated automobile on the drive below came up to me rancorously. The tent gleamed, a starlit ghost of itself, and the boxwoods bent in the breeze. I went over to the parapet and leaned my elbow on it. I had done the same thing so often before; I had carried all my times of stress so intently to that particular place, that instinctively my feet turned there.

And there in the starlight, I went over the whole serio-comedy, and I loathed my part in it. He had been perfectly right to be angry with me, and with all of us. And I had been a hypocrite and a pharisee, and had thanked God that I was not as other people, when the fact was that I was worse than the worst. And although it wasn't dignified to think of him going down the drain pipe—still—no one could blame him for wanting to get away from us, and he was quite muscular enough to do it.

I was in the depths of self-abasement when I heard a sound behind me. It was a long breath, quite audible, that ended in a groan. I gripped the parapet and listened, while my heart pounded, and in a minute it came again.

I was terribly frightened. Then—I don't know how I did it, but I was across the roof, kneeling beside the tent, where it stood against the chimney. And there, lying prone among the flower-pots, and almost entirely hidden, lay the man we had been looking for.

His head was toward me, and I reached out shakingly and touched his face. It was cold, and my hand, when I drew it back, was covered with blood.

SURELY BREAKS UP A BAD COLD.

The Most Severe Cold and Grippe Misery Will Be Relieved in Just a Few Hours.

It is a positive fact that a dose of Pope's Cold Compound taken every two hours until three consecutive doses are taken will cure Grippe or break up the most severe cold, either in the head or chest, back, stomach or limbs.

You distinctly feel the cold breaking down, and all the disagreeable grippe symptoms leave after the very first dose. It promptly ends the most miserable headaches, neuralgic pains, difficulty, head and nose stuffed up, feverishness, sneezing, sore throat, running of the nose, mucous catarrhal discharges, soreness, stiffness and rheumatic twinges.

Pope's Cold Compound is the result of three years' research at a cost of more than fifty thousand dollars and contains no quinine, which we have conclusively demonstrated is not effective in the treatment of colds or grippe.

Take this harmless Compound as directed, with the knowledge that there is no other medicine, made anywhere else in the world, which will cure your cold or end Grippe misery so promptly and without any other assistance or bad after-effects as a 50-cent package of Pope's Cold Compound, which a druggist in the world can supply.

GREEN ROOM CHAT.

THE SOISSON.

Uncle Tom's Cabin.

Jolly, tender sentiment, lively dialogue, spectacular situations, thrilling climaxes and poetic justice, all are prettily blended in the ancient-honored "Uncle Tom's Cabin," which the renowned Stetson Company will offer at the Soisson Theatre Saturday, November 12, afternoon and night.

Under this grand old stage story is illustrated the vagaries of life and the versatility of human nature. The law of compensation, so dear to Emerson, is strictly observed. The pathetic death of little Eva has no sooner created the audience with sorrow's pall than a stunning vaudeville number comes to restore the flooded or weeping drooping soul. The Stetson Company is the acknowledged leader in the production of Harriet Beecher Stowe's masterpiece. The cast is large in numbers and well distributed. The blood, bonnets and ponies, the music and scenic effects, costumes and accessories are all of the best attainable. Spectacles glitter through the opening like stars in a wintry sky.

In the Leon Washington-Stetson Company there are all kinds of dramatic greatness. It is in a class by itself. Go and see it or you will miss the year's best offering.

Revenge.

"Stop!" The binkes of the motor were suddenly applied, a pandemonium of whirling wheels ensued, and the motorist came face to face with Constable Coppers, who had been hiding in the hedge.

"Excuse me, sir," said the portly policeman, taking out his notebook and pencil, "but you exceeded the speed limit by two miles over a measured piece of road."

"I have done nothing of the kind," retorted the motorist. "And, besides, the evening like mine is a wintry sky. I call the sergeant, 'bink' as it goes. 'Am as took the time. It's in the piggy yonder.'"

"Don't trouble, Robert," the other hastened to reply. "I would sooner pay fifty fines than disturb the sergeant at his meals!"—London Answers.

Don't Overlook the Opening Chapter

CYCLONE FORMATION.

The Mechanical Laws Are the Same as in a Whirlpool.

Any one can make the exact counter-act of a cyclone if he so desires. Of course a cyclone is caused by the air over a big area getting warm and light with small pressure. This air consequently tries to rise almost in a body and leaves a partial vacuum behind, but the outside cold air rushes in from all sides. Now, it is a scientific and mechanical truth that when a fluid runs in from all sides toward a central point it causes a whirlpool or rotation of the fluid. The exact analogy of a cyclone, then, although with the fluid water instead of air, is seen when the stopper is pulled out of the bottom of a basin full of water. An almost perfect vacuum, as far as the water is concerned, is caused by the water immediately over the stopper running out. The rest of the water rushes in from all directions, and a whirlpool is the result. There is one difference here from the air cyclone. In the air the force with which it rushes toward the center greatly compresses the air whirling at that point and makes it very dense—dense, in fact, that a straw carried in the center whirl will not be driven into a big block of wood without bending. Of course in a whirlpool the water is not compressed, running practically the same in density all the time. That is one highly important property of water: it is practically incompressible. Nevertheless it is very interesting to see the whirl form in a basin and know that the mechanical laws are the same as in the formation of a cyclone many miles wide.—Harper's Weekly.

NEEDS MAYOR, ADVERTISES.

Magdeburg, Germany, Views It as Pure Business Proposition.

German cities are inclined to be the best governed in the world. How far apart are the ideas of Germans and Americans on the subject of city government may be seen from reading an advertisement which lately appeared in a number of German papers:

The place of mayor of Magdeburg is vacant. The salary is 2,000 marks ($3,200) a year, including the rental of a dwelling in the city hall. Besides his salary the incumbent will receive 4,000 marks ($6,400) for his official expenses. Candidates should apply before Sept. 1.

Can any one imagine an American city advertising for a mayor? The German idea is that a municipality is a business, to be conducted on business lines. The office of mayor is one requiring knowledge and skill of a technical, professional character. A man who has proved himself a good mayor in one German town is frequently invited to another.

The larger towns look to the smaller towns to train municipal officers for them. It frequently happens that two cities bid in competition for a particularly expert man. So when their chief burgomaster, Dr. Lott, was appointed burgomaster of Magdeburg, the good people of Magdeburg gave public notice of their need of a capable man.

NEW JERSEY TEA.

Red Root, That Did Good Service in Revolutionary Days.

You housekeepers of today whose favorite brands of Orange Pekoe, English Breakfast, India and Ceylon, etc., diffuse their fragrance over your tea table would hardly suppose that tea, or rather, a fairly good substitute for it, was once made from the leaves of one of our prettiest New Jersey wild flowers. Yet so it was in the old turbulent days of the American Revolution.
